

GOVERNOR HAS SIGNED BILL

Gives His Reasons for Accepting the Co-Employe Measure as Was Passed.

HIS STATEMENT

He Also Signed the Bill Providing for a Parental School in Milwaukee.

(Special to The Gazette.) Madison, Wis., May 27.—Governor La Follette late yesterday afternoon deposited with the secretary of state the co-employe bill passed by the legislature, giving it his qualified approval. While far from satisfactory, the governor says, it is an improvement over the present law, and for that reason he sanctions it with his signature. In a memorandum attached to the bill the governor says: "At the beginning of this session I had the honor to recommend that the present statutes respecting the right of recovery under what is known as the co-employe law for the benefit of railroad employes, being so amended as to afford a more substantial benefit for those engaged in that service."

"Pursuant to this recommendation a bill much more favorable to railway employes than the present law was passed by one branch of the legislature, but had been so modified by amendment that its scope and value are much narrowed, as it now comes to me for executive action. While it falls far short of the full measure of relief recommended in the message so justly due to railway employes, nevertheless it seems to embrace within the provisions a somewhat larger number of those engaged in this important service than are now within the protection of the existing statute. I am aware that this bill is unsatisfactory to those who expected a more liberal measure, and who in their disappointment would at this time prefer that it should not become a law; but I am impressed with the great difficulties that such legislation encounters, and regard it as wise to secure for the present whatever ground has been gained at this session. For these reasons I approve the bill."

The governor has also signed, and deposited with the secretary of state late yesterday afternoon, the parental school bill, providing for the establishment of truant schools in Milwaukee.

GENERAL SUMMARY OF WEEKLY CROP REPORT

Temperature Most Favorable of the Season—Drought Relieved in Ohio, Valley and Lake Michigan.

Washington, May 27.—In the weekly crop report of the weather bureau is the following general summary: Respecting temperature, the week ended May 25 in districts east of the Rocky mountains was the most favorable of the season, and the first in which there has been no complaint of a lack of warmth in some part of this area. Heavy rains from Oklahoma and Arkansas northward to Minnesota and the Dakotas have retarded work in these districts. The drought has been largely relieved in the Ohio valley, the lake region and the southern portions of the middle Atlantic states.

Good progress was made with corn planting in Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, but to the westward a wet weather has prevented the completion of this work, which is much delayed, while the drought has prevented germination and planting in the middle Atlantic states and New England. In the Southern states the crop has made favorable progress.

In the southern portions of Missouri and Kansas winter wheat has suffered some deterioration, but elsewhere in these states and in Nebraska the crop continues in promising condition.

In the Dakotas, Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska spring wheat made rapid growth, and is in a promising condition. In the north Pacific coast states the crop is backward.

In the states of the Missouri valley oats made favorable growth and a decided improvement is reported from Michigan and Illinois. In the Ohio valley and middle Atlantic states the outlook is less promising. Harvesting is general in southern Texas, Georgia and Florida.

A prominent Parisian has accepted the guardianship of the child. When seen today the Parisian said he had not suspected the child was not genuine. MORGAN'S NAME BRINGS FUNDS

Count de Bosdari, the Man Who Secured $200,000 by Using J. P. Morgan's Signature.

(Special by Scripps-McLae.) London, May 27.—Count Maurice De Bosdari, who forged the name of J. Pierpont Morgan to the extent of about $200,000 in London last winter was arrested today at Beyruth. He will be brought here for trial. Mr. Morgan will probably appear against him personally.

Maurice De Bosdari is the second son of Count Bosdari of Ancona, Italy, who has little but his name. The count compelled to make his own living, went out in the world fourteen years ago. He became an interpreter to the Italian embassy at Constantinople, and married the daughter of a wealthy Armenian there. He came to London about five years ago and became known as an art connoisseur. As such he was introduced to Mr. Morgan last winter. The American financier commissioned him to make extensive purchases of curios. Through correspondence Count Bosdari became familiar with Mr. Morgan's signature and methods of payment. By skillful forging he managed to get about $200,000 during the latter part of January. His financial and social reputation was high, and it was two weeks after his disappearance before the extent of his operations was suspected.

GERMAN OFFICER GOES TO PRISON

Killed a Soldier for Not Saluting Him in a Proper Manner.

(Special by Scripps-McLae.) Berlin, May 27.—Naval Ensign Hussner, who on Good Friday at Essen killed Artilleryman Hartmann with his sword for not saluting him properly, was sentenced today to four years and one week's imprisonment in the penitentiary and to degradation.

The court-martial of Hussner, which was held today at Kiel, attracted the attention of all Germany. There were five judges, and at the opening of the trial the state's attorney moved that a sentence of six years' imprisonment in the penitentiary and expulsion from the navy be imposed upon Hussner. Hussner's replies to the president's questions were straightforward. He said that while regretting that he killed the artilleryman, he acted within the service instructions, and that he was obliged by honor to compel obedience.

"But," said the president, "you said you never drew your sword, without using it?"

"Yes," replied the prisoner, "it is so ordered in the regulations."

"You were seen loosening your sword, before Hartmann left your side," continued the president.

"Yes," the prisoner answered, "I thought of Herr Hussner's mention, the name of an officer who after being struck by a private, was obliged to resign because he was unable to loosen his sword, and the private, who was not identified ran away."

The impression made by the examination of Hussner was that his action was the result of a system of training on men who were dull, though passionate, and which affected mind filled with exaggerated ideas of honor.

There is plenty of heat at present apart from politics."

The bolt struck the north gable, and tore a hole through the roof, splintering the two ridge boards, and then separated, running down the gable each side, melting and tearing off the tin covering the gables. Mr. Uehling's horse was in the barn, directly under where the bolt struck, and it seems strange that it escaped without injury. Mr. Uehling considers it a close call, and a fortunate escape.

Ever since the first thunderstorms of yesterday morning reports have been received of damage done by lightning bolts, and the list is probably by no means complete. Among the spots where the lightning left its mark are the following:

Several feet of siding was torn from August Abendroth's house, 109 Terrace St., yesterday morning. Mrs. Bertha Krielow's home at 255 Linn St. was slightly damaged by a bolt which came in the chimney and twisted its way through the house and then cut through a window. The J. L. and M. F. TRIP TO MEXICO VERY PLEASANT

JANESVILLE PARTY ENJOYING THEMSELVES VERY MUCH.

ANOTHER INTERESTING LETTER

Mr. Hutson Tells of Their Voyaging Through the Southern Country.

Frontera, Tabasco, Mexico, May 12.—On Monday, May 11, we visited the National museum in the National palace on the Plaza. There are many relics of the ancient Aztecs, and these were very interesting. Among them was one large stone disk or dial, some 12 ft. in diameter, and covered with hieroglyphs. It is called the Aztec calendar, and was discovered in 1739 back of the foot of the Occidental tower in the Cathedral de Mexico. We saw, also, the beautiful and costly coat of Maximilian, trimmed with silver and gold-leaf, likewise his silverware, which was massive and represented immense value. His armor and his wife's beautiful costumes were also items of interest.

Tuesday, May 12, we secured a pass to visit the Castle of Chapultepec, President Diaz' summer home, through the kindness of Mr. Harry McChesney, a son of Dr. McChesney of Edgerton, Wis., but now on the staff of the Mexican Herald.

The castle and grounds are simply superb in their appointments and furnishings. The main entrance is cut through solid rock to a point beneath the center of the castle, where an elevator ascends through a shaft cut in the rock to the main floor, 150 feet above, while there is a drive which winds around and to the top of the bluff on which the castle is built.

The minister's chamber was an elegant room. In it was a red bed with satin trimmings and high satin pillows. The floor of this and other rooms was of Indian oak blocks. Mrs. Diaz's private room and dressing room were the next. The walls were covered with silk and plush instead of paper, and there was a large gold-framed mirror nearly as high as the room. We saw the president's private chamber where he has his meetings with his cabinet. There are some fine chairs there, especially the president's which was of fine plush.

A room of exquisite beauty was the music room, with its fine carvings and elegant tapestry. It contains a chandelier, gold-plated and beautiful ceiling, we were told, $18,000. Some of the walls were covered with embossed material resembling leather and some others had carved bronze.

On the walls of the billiard room were some pictures 4 by 8 ft., worked in pink silk and red plush and were simply exquisite. The dining room was elegantly furnished and contained a large carved table and a dozen chairs of the same trimmed with embossed leather. We were led out into a corridor with stained glass windows, one of which the guide opened and we had a splendid view of the city and grounds and city of Mexico in the distance.

The castle has a fine garden of beautiful flowers and shrubs, and even trees growing in soil which had to be carried up from below. There are also covered verandas about the castle, the ceilings of which are painted with beautiful figures on a background of blue, painted in the time of Maximilian.

There are large compartments for the soldiers who protect the castle, in the vicinity of the president's castle.

We left Mexico City Wednesday morning for Vera Cruz, arriving there at 7 p. m. The scenery en route was indeed sublime. The rugged cliffs and deep canyons were beautiful yet awful in their grandeur.

We descended from Esperanza to Orizaba 4000 ft. in two hours' ride. At one place we could see the city of Maltrata, 2000 ft. below us and only a little while later we were on the level as we ran into and stopped at the depot, having passed through several tunnels and descended 2000 ft. in so short a time. I think there are 15 to 20 tunnels on the way to Vera Cruz. The city of Vera Cruz is low and warm and filthy beyond compare, and I do not wonder that they have the yellow fever every year. The buzzards sit round on the roofs and ledges of the bldgs, waiting for the sewers which are on the surface of the streets, to produce the desired morsels for them to carry away. (P.) Our boat was 14 days late and was loaded down two days below the freight line. There were 27 passengers on board, with accommodations for only 8, and they paid the expense of the trip in fares. The boat's freight netted her about $5000.00 profit for about a week's time. I was told that there was a freight lying at Vera Cruz for six months awaiting shipment, and every boat going loaded beyond her freight-line. Great need of more and larger transportation facilities.

We were two nights on the gulf as we had to lie out beyond the bar at Frontera over night because of arriving too late to enter the river. We pulled into Frontera, 5 miles up the Grijalva river at 9:30 Sunday morning, and we had not been ashore more than an hour, at most till we discovered that it is simply hot here, though 95 is the hottest registered yet. We are surrounded by the most luxuriant vegetation, palms, coconuts, oranges, lemons, mangoes, etc., all growing in profusion. We will take a trip up the river and I will describe some of the interesting things in my next. F. C. HUTSON.

The Wabash division of the Milwaukee and St. Paul has been transferred from a narrow gauge into a standard gauge and will be ready for business on May 31. This line is sixty miles long.

The Wisconsin Central has sixty men at work relaying its tracks from St. Paul to Abbottsford with ninety pound steel rails. The entire main line from Chicago to St. Paul is to be laid with these heavy rails.

It is reported that the Louisville and Nashville has secured control of the Tennessee Central road. By building an extension of the Atlantic Knoxville and Northern from Oliver Springs to Harrisonville the Louisville and Nashville will have a direct line from Knoxville to Nashville.

The Chicago Great Western is reported to have bought the right of way and charter of the Des Moines and Southern railway. The new acquisition will eventually give the Great Western a direct line from Des Moines to Omaha. It is said that will be completed in a year.

A Raging Torrent: Yesterday afternoon the heaviest rain, Martindale avenue was a roaring torrent. The water overflowed the ditches, and in some places was a foot deep on the road. The cisterns on Washington street also could not take care of the volume of water in the gutters for some time.

No steps have been taken by the Rock Island, Chicago Great Western, and other long lines between Chicago and St. Paul and Minneapolis to meet the reduction in time made by the Burlington. It is said, will put on a fast train, and if it does, the Chicago Great Western will. Every thing is said to depend on the decision of the Burlington. It is the opinion that some of the roads will not be able to make the fast time and will reduce rates. That might mean a war.

BITTER WORDS FOR MORMONS

ORDINARY MEANS OF NO AVAIL.

Declares the Organization of Latter-Day Saints Vies With the German Army in Matter of Perfection—Massacre of Jews Is Condemned.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 27.—A strong denunciation of the Mormon church by the Rev. Charles L. Thompson, D. D., of New York was the feature of the session of the Presbyterian general assembly. Dr. Thompson was discussing the mission, and in impressing upon his hearers the uselessness of using ordinary missionary methods in dealing with the Mormons he said:

"It is not to be educated, not to be civilized, not to be reformed, it must be crushed. No other organization is as perfect as the Mormon church except the German army."

The committee on bills and overtures, of which Dr. Van Dyke is chairman, returned the resolution regarding labor and capital and constituting a board of arbitration, deeming it inexpedient to act on such questions.

Condemn Attack on Jews.

A request for the passage of a resolution of condemnation with regard to the recent massacre of Jews at Kishineff, in Russia, was read to the assembly, and a resolution strongly condemning the massacre was introduced and passed.

The subject of home missions and its corollary—evangelical work among the churches—occupied the morning session of the assembly. The Rev. Dr. Holloway of New Jersey, chairman of the board of home missions, presented the report of that committee.

The report of the standing committee on aid for colleges was considered and discussed.

Moderator Coyle has announced his appointments for chairmen for the various boards and standing committees:

Discuss Divorce.

The Rev. Dr. Van Dyke from the committee on bills and overtures, reported on an overture that had come to the assembly on the question of divorce, as follows:

"That the ministers of the Presbyterian church are hereby enjoined to refuse to perform the marriage ceremony for divorced persons except those who have been divorced on such grounds and for such causes as are recognized as scriptural by the standards of the church."

Millions for Small Colleges.

The troublesome question about the Philadelphia preachers who are honorary members of the Union League, where liquor is used, was quietly disposed of without discussion on the ground that it was "only a newspaper rumor." The action was taken before most of the commissioners knew its significance.

The work of the board of aid for colleges, located in Chicago, was reviewed and the leading address was made by the Rev. Dr. Edward C. Ray of Chicago. This led to a movement to raise $12,000,000 for small colleges.

UNION WORKMEN TO COMPETE WITH TRUST

Window Glass Workers Accept Offer of Site for Two Ten-Pot Factories at Fairmont, W. Va.

Hartford City, Ind., May 27.—Union workmen who were recently discharged by the window glass trust are planning to open co-operative factories to pit hand labor against machines. A union committee appointed to investigate the natural gas fields of Kansas, Indian Territory and West Virginia returned and reported that a contract would be accepted from Fairmont, W. Va., where a free site for a plant and fuel for five years will be furnished at five cents a 1,000 cubic feet. The plant will consist of two ten-pot concerns and one thirty-blower tank. It will cost nearly $100,000 and take fully 500 workers from the gas belt. It will be a co-operative plant and the stockholders say that they will make window glass for $1.50 a day if necessary to compete with the trust's machines.

The Rexall Soldiers score another victory over their enemy, Dyspepsia.

It has been Mr. Boarder's habit to take his meals at all times and places wherever he might fancy.

Being a strong man, he felt no ill effect for some time, then his appetite became irregular, and his food distressed him, and finally the mere sight or odor of food became nauseating. At this time he began to realize that he was a captive of Dyspepsia, and try as he would he could not break his bonds. His weight fell off, he became nervous and irritable, could not sleep, and his sufferings were intense.

The Rexall soldiers rescued Mr. Boarder just in time, and took him to their headquarters, Smith Drug Co's store, where he was supplied with Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. To the surprise and joy of Mr. Boarder he gained strength and weight, and soon expects to take up a man's full work again. He attributes his release from Dyspepsia entirely to the curative properties of

THE GAME LAWS

The Milwaukee Sentinel discusses the new game laws, and commends them with the exception of the clause permitting 15 days spring shooting. It is safe to say that with market shooting prohibited, there will be no great slaughter of game. This one feature of the law is worth more than all the rest combined. The Sentinel says:

"With the clause permitting spring shooting eliminated the new Wisconsin game laws would give entire satisfaction. It is to be regretted that the bill could not have been passed with that provision omitted. This state had taken an advanced position in the matter and it would have been more creditable to have maintained it, though no great harm is likely to result from a partial abandonment. The open season will be short, and as each hunter is to be limited, to fifteen ducks a day the slaughter can not be heavy.

While the sportsmen of the state would have preferred no spring shooting they will feel the prohibition of the sale and shipment of game at all seasons of the year is a much more important matter and that to secure that end the legislature was justified in establishing the short open season. As the Sentinel has frequently said the depletion of the state's stock of game is not the work of the farmer or the city sportsmen, but of the man who makes his living by hunting and fishing. The new law gives the pot hunter's business a death blow. He cannot now find a market for his baggings except by smuggling them into another state, a difficult, dangerous, and even when successful, not very profitable undertaking.

To the lover of game food who is not willing to seek it with rod and gun, the prohibition will appear to be a drastic step, but it is the only way in which the game can be protected. It is difficult to provide a way of supplying the market in a limited measure without offering encouragement to the pot hunter, who is quick to see a loop hole which will enable him to ply his trade without violating the letter of the law. The aim of the game laws has been to permit sportsmen to secure, and bring home a reasonable amount of game and to prevent the professional hunter from disposing of a greater amount than the ordinary hunter is allowed, but no successful method of securing that end has ever been devised.

So long as game could be sold in the market and anybody was permitted to ship it, the pot hunter could find ways of evading the law. Now that he can not sell it, he will have no incentive for securing it, and there is every reason to believe that the result will be a great decrease in the number of birds and animals killed. As a matter of course many attempts will be made to evade the law, but it will be more difficult. The detection of violations will be easier and the work of the wardens simplified.

CHINESE TRADE CONDITIONS

Chinese official returns show that the imports from the United States in 1902 amounted to 30,138,713 Halkwan taels, against 23,529,606 taels in 1901. 22,288,745 taels in 1899, 12,440,302 taels in 1897, and 5,093,182 taels in 1895. The total for 1902 is the largest in the history of the commerce between China and the United States, and is six times as much in 1895, 25 times as much as in 1897, about 34 per cent more than in 1899, and nearly 30 per cent larger than in 1901. Cotton goods, kerosene oil and flour continue to form the chief imports from the United States. The imports of American jeans in 1902, amounted to 529,492 Halkwan taels against 244,228 taels in 1901;

American drills, 6,024,443 taels, against 4,834,579 taels in 1901; American sheetings 15,130,808 taels against 7,636,714 taels in 1901; while American kerosene oil shows a reduction amounting to 55,257,807 gallons in 1902 against 57,759,677 gallons in 1901. The decrease in Chinese imports of oil, however, is general, the total having fallen from 130 million gallons in 1901 to 90 millions in 1902. That from Russia fell from 32 million gallons in 1901 to 10 million gallons in 1902, and that from Sumatra from 40½ millions in 1901 to 33½ million gallons in 1902. Flour also showed a slight decrease, the total value imported in 1902 being 3,844,319 Halkwan taels, against 4,726,962 in 1901. Ginseng, which comes chiefly from the United States, shows an increase, being in 1902, 1,614,989 Halkwan taels, against 1,181,536 taels in 1901. The average value of the Halkwan tael is given by the report at 63 cents in American gold.

Statistical secretary Taylor, who presents the report, says in the preliminary statement: "The value of cotton goods of all kinds imported, was estimated at 127,545, 309 Halkwan taels, as compared with 99,651, 999 taels during 1901. Cloths of all kinds advanced, especially Indian which rose from 15,320 to 126,485 pieces. There was a good demand for drills, and English jeans made the astonishing advance from 41,983 to 360,558 pieces, while Dutch and American about doubled. Sheetings also found an increased inquiry, the American trade going far ahead as usual. It is interesting to note, and is not without significance, that Japanese drills, rose from 23 pieces to 11,620 pieces, and Japanese sheetings, from 13,006 to 115,366 pieces. English cotton yarn continued its downward course and has fallen to 32,351 pieces, while Indian has reached 1,887,086 pieces, and Japanese, 522,408 pieces. Kerosene oil, with the exception of that from Borneo, shows decreases, Russian oil has fallen to 10,105,886 gallons from 32,486, 070 gallons, thus losing the ground gained during the last ten years.

THE JEWISH MASSACRE

There is nothing more intense than religious hatred. The recent massacre of the Jews at Kishineff was occasioned by the observance of a Jewish passover which was offensive to the Russian government.

The edict has since been issued, which gives the Jews a year to leave the country, unless they will consent to abandon their faith, and subscribe to the Greek Catholic creed which is the religion of the nation.

There was a time, a good many years ago, when the same spirit of intolerance characterized the nation that is now oppressed, and it is a little significant that the best friends of humanity today are found among the nations that have adopted the teachings of the lowly Nazarene.

The Russian Jew today is an object of pity, and his deplorable condition commands the sympathy of all Christian people. He may have inherited the curse from his fathers, but he is not responsible. America offers to him a haven of refuge, where freedom of thought and action so far as worship is concerned, will not be questioned.

The Gazette is not inclined to be hypocritical in regard to the state administration, but in one particular it enters a protest. There comes from the office of the state superintendent a prettily printed Memorial Day Annual. On the title page is the following quotation from the poem, "The Bivouac of the Dead."

"On fame's eternal camping ground
Their silent tents are spread,
And glory guards, with solemn round,
The bivouac of the dead."

The Gazette does not think it is quite right that our new state superintendent, while making sweeping changes in his office, should also try to change the authorship of that great poem. It is not good reform to attempt to teach the children of Wisconsin that Longfellow, and not the south's gifted poet and brave soldier—Theodore O'Hara—is the author.

The Danby Oil company, with headquarters in California, has entered the field as a rival to the Standard Oil company. One of the first orders booked was for 2,000,000 barrels. The public will watch developments with interest. John D. Rockefeller will doubtless survive the shock, with money enough left to see him through.

Kentucky is a good state to keep away from. At the trial now in progress, the witnesses are protected by the state militia, and any man who knows anything about the assassination of attorney Marcum takes his life in his hands when he consents to offer testimony. The sheriff of Jackson county has resigned, because he did not care to invite enmity.

Colonel Nicholas Smith reminds the readers of the Gazette, in a paragraph, that the new state school superintendent is taking undue liberty with authors. There is a limit to ambition, and the enterprising official appears to have exceeded the limit.

Daniel V. Miller, a trusted attorney in the post office department, is under arrest for abuse of office. The investigation now in progress promises some startling developments all along the line. While these conditions may be unfortunate for the party, no guilty man should be permitted to escape. Civil service seems to have protected a good many irregularities.

With twenty people killed or seriously injured, in the late automobile race in France, the government is warranted in putting a stop to that class of sport. A public highway was never intended for vehicles traveling at the speed of an express train. The people have some rights that should be respected. If it is necessary to have special contests, build a track and fence it in.

Senator Spooner's 100,000 acre farm turns out to be a little strip of land about 20 acres. The Senator is said to be flooded with applications from game wardens, foresters and farmers, but he thinks he will be able to look after the estate himself.

The common council seems disposed to observe both the spirit and letter of the law.

PRESS COMMENT

Racine Journal: The latest snap out in this country is the crow and the hawk bounty law. It will pay better than the henery.

Marquette Eagle: The latest scientific discovery is encouraging to the smoker. It is said that tobacco kills the consumption bacilli.

Racine Times: Col. Waterson has cut loose at Grover Cleveland again. This is the season when the Julep worth itself aught.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Mr. Carnegie denies with some heat that he belongs to New York's "smart set." Possibly Andrew considers Mr. Harry Lehr a "fair fable body after a."

Chippewa Falls Herald: At least our worthy legislators have killed enough bad bills to atone for some of the good ones they have failed to pass.

Green Bay Gazette: That atomic theory of weight evolved by Professor Balcock which makes the weight of an article dependent upon the amount of energy contained in its atoms accounts for the man who "weighs a ton when he is mad."

Madison Journal: The state Journal took a census of newspaper reporters estimates of the senators—"Check the eight who best fulfill your ideal of a senator." While as to the others, opinions differed widely, on three men they all agreed—Stout, Whitehead and Hatten. This should be a satisfaction to the district as represented by these men.

La Crosse Press: The Green Bay Gazette hazards the prediction that the signature of the primary law by the governor is a foregone conclusion. Wrong, nothing is a foregone conclusion when Governor La Follett has a part in it.

Sheboygan Telegram: Governor La Follett is never to blame for anything. That is his opinion. The date for final adjournment has been reached and in his closing remarks Senator Lenroot said: "The session of 1903 will be known as one of important achievement and its results will be far-reaching in the interests of the people." In what line? a suffering commonwealth asks.

TROUBLE ON THE INTERURBAN

HIGH TENSION WIRES BURN OUT INSULATION.

PLAYS HAVOC WITH TIME CARD

Trains Late This Morning — Cow Struck Near Happy Hollow Today.

As the result of an accident affecting the high tension cables the entire interurban system was in a generally demoralized condition this morning for several hours. For a time all cars were stalled and when they resumed operations they were unable to make their customary speed.

When necessary repairs were made the schedule was resumed with such changes as were necessitated by the delays early in the day.

Insulation Burned Out
At the railroad crossing about four or five miles this side of Beloit, where the high tension cables are carried through the cutting in an insulated wooden box which was recently constructed, the insulations were burned out. When the car arriving at eight o'clock this morning passed the cutting the box was blazing, and flames were shooting out from cracks on the lower side. As soon as the car reached this city the power was shut off while repairs were made. The wires carry too heavy a voltage to make it safe to approach them when the current is on. While the cars were waiting in this city the interurban telephone system became disordered and for some time it was impossible to communicate with the central office. The bell of the phone rang incessantly but no words could be distinguished.

Fractured Cow's Legs
As the eight o'clock car was speeding through Happy Hollow, between the river and prairie roads, a cow belonging on the Young farm, on the track refused to budge in spite of repeated toots from the whistle on the car. The animal was caught on the fender of the car in such a way as to break its hind legs. The fender was somewhat the worse for the encounter.

FIRE POLICE WILL LEAD THE PARADE
Volunteer Police and Fire Force Accept Invitation of the Woodmen.

After some discussion and a quantity of red tape the fire police decided to accept the invitation of the Modern Woodmen of America to head the parade on the day of their picnic. At first they refused to consider an invitation unless it came from Mayor Wilson, and later they rejected the mayor's invitation to accept that of the order.

MISS WATTS WAS HOSTESS
Pleasant Social Affair at Her Mineral Point Avenue Home.

Miss Maud Watts last evening entertained a number of her friends at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Watts, 256 Mineral Point Ave. Different games were indulged in and one of the features of the evening was a cake walk by Miss Laura Knipp and Ernest Allen. In the later part of the evening choice refreshments were served and the guests departed at a late hour after spending a most enjoyable evening.

Everybody Welcome: In response to inquiries from business men as to whether those who are not members of the Modern Woodmen of America are expected to place floats in the parade to advertise their business, Secretary Fisher says that all are welcome, and eligible to compete for the prizes.

Nothing But Smoke: A quantity of smoke issuing from the Blodgett mill shortly after noon today brought out the fire department, but no blaze could be discovered. It is supposed the smoke originated in one of the attrition mills, which is operated at a terrific speed, probably from some substance that became lodged between the blades.

Tollies Case in Progress: In the circuit court the Tollies damage suit against the town of Center is still in progress. The day was occupied in hearing witnesses. Considerable attention has been attracted by the suit and the court room was well filled with spectators most of the day.

Licensed to Marry: Licenses to marry were issued today to the following couples: James R. Clarke of Beloit to Tina Moffitt, also of Beloit; David B. Lammann to Emily Mae McMinn, both of Edgerton.

Card of Thanks
We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness to us during the illness and death of our father and also for the beautiful floral offerings.

MR. and MRS. WILL HORN.

Mentioned for High Position.
The name of Attorney Eugene B. Hay of Minneapolis is before President Roosevelt as a candidate for the important position of assistant attorney general for the department of the interior, a place soon to be vacated by Judge Vandewater of Wyoming, who has been appointed a United States circuit-judge. The place pays $4,500 a year.

A Gentle Invitation.
A ragged little child was heard to call from the window of a mean-looking house to her neighbor: "Please Mrs. Jones, mother's best compliments and if it's fine weather, will you go begging with her to-morrow?"

PROTEST AGAINST AN IRON FENCE

County Board Should Consider, Before They Decide to Surround Monument with Iron.

At the meeting of the county board tomorrow it is said that a resolution will be introduced to the effect that an iron fence be built around the lower portion of the soldiers' monument to protect it from the ravages of the children who play about it. To put iron and granite together resembles a graveyard. To spoil the beauty of the park by placing a picket iron fence or any other kind of iron about the base of our beautiful statue is a shame and the county fathers should consider carefully before they make any such a move. Let the children play about it if they want. They could not wear it out if they ran there a hundred years. To see the little ones at play about the statue that represents war's stern alarms is a sight not often witnessed. We stop and look at a picture of a bird nesting in a cannon's mouth; how much more beautiful is the sight of the little ones at play at the foot of the statue erected to honor men who gave up their lives for their country? Could the statue but be asked it would doubtless say it was glad the little ones played at its feet. Aside from this the expense. Think of it well before you do it, members of the board. Think of the citizens who see the statue every day and consult their wishes as well as your own.

DELIVERY AT WINDOWS ENDS

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS ITS DISCONTINUANCE.

DELIVERY SERVICE IMPROVED

Early Morning Collection Will Be Made from All Boxes in Business Section.

In accordance with a general movement inaugurated throughout the country Janesville will within a few days will be dropped from the list of cities having evening window delivery. It is with the purpose of increasing the efficiency of the service that the change has been made and is the outgrowth of three visits made to this city by Inspector Warner of the postal department.

To Give Better Service
Mr. Warner's first trip of inspection was made in response to a request from Postmaster Nowlan that if possible the city delivery system be so extended as to embrace quarters of the city which are now reached by neither rural nor city delivery. No change will be made in this direction, but the carriers will be given an extra half hour on their routes, so that that part of their work can be done more thoroughly. The present routes were mapped out when the office was not handling one-half of the mail it now is, and with its rapid growth the force has been more and more pressed to complete its work efficiently. By dropping its window delivery more time will be given the carriers.

To Catch Early Mail
Another change which will go into force at the same time will be the establishment of an early morning collection from the boxes in the business section of the city. The mail will be gathered up at about six o'clock in the morning, so that all of the early trains can be reached with the letters that are dropped late at night. These changes will go into effect next Monday, according to instructions received by Mr. Nowlan from Washington.

SCHLITZ CO. DID NOT BUY LONDON

Landlord Jones Denies the Reported Sale—Will Remain in Control.

Fred R. Jones brands the story that he has sold the Hotel London as unfounded on fact. Not only has he not disposed of the property to the Schlitz Brewing Co., as has been reported, but he is making extensive improvements throughout the building, installing steam heat, painting, varnishing, decorating, inside and out, from cellar to attic, and will continue to conduct the hotel as heretofore. He has purchased forty feet of land adjoining the hotel on the north, facing on Bluff street, and will erect two stores and four flats on the property.

At a recent meeting of the Blacksmiths and horse shoers it was decided that all their places of business would be closed on Memorial day, also on Woodmen day, June 4th.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, May 27, 1893
Major General Ulysses S. Grant was born at Mount Pleasant, Clermont county, Ohio, April 22, 1822, and entered the West Point academy from his native state at the age of seventeen, receiving his appointment as cadet from the late General Thomas A. Halmer, of Ohio.

At St. Paul, Minnesota, the thermometer registered 90 degrees, on the 19th and 20th of this month.

The insurrection in Poland so far from being put down, increases. The small bands of Poles are beaten and scattered sometimes, but only to gather and fight again.

We are still without definite news from Vicksburg. The latest positive intelligence is to Friday night. Everything received since then is rumor, coming mostly through rebel sources.

The Montreal Gazette says, in effect, that the amount of American silver in Canada tends to depreciate their own silver specie, and, therefore, should be banished from the country.

Attention! All members of Company E, 22nd regiment, Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry, who are absent from the regiment, will report themselves to me at the C. & N. W. R. I. depot, tomorrow morning at six-thirty o'clock. Gage Burgess, 1st Lieut.

..Weekly Market Review..

There was a very marked period of liquidation during the week during which stocks went tumbling and great blocks were dumped on the market with apparent disregard for prices they would bring. On the heels of this condition, however, came the best series of news developments that have made themselves apparent for some time, and as a result the market has made a distinct rally, and is holding strong under the influence of the favorable factors dominating it. We believe these favorable factors will be far-reaching in their results, and as a result, we are in for an era of better prices.

Throughout all the slump, England was a heavy buyer of our securities and she has taken in the past two weeks all of 250,000 shares. This buying has been the best of the market, and at one time was enough to itself to stem the liquidation flood. On the top of this good news came the announcement that the banks of England had reduced its discount rate to 3 1/2 per cent., and Friday the announcement was made that the entire issue of $90,000,000 Pennsylvania new stock had been underwritten, by a syndicate headed by Speyer & Co. and Kuen, Loeb & Co. One of the years that the pessimists have claimed to entertain was that this stock issue would fail. This fear need bother them no longer, and it can not again be used as a market factor. This syndicate has underwritten the entire issue at 125, and coming at this time, it is an item that more than anything else indicates that the backbone of the bull manipulation has been broken.

Another element that went far toward bringing about a better condition in a stock market was the development of some kind of sanity in the cotton market. There is not the slightest doubt that there was a tremendous short interest in this stable, and when the prices went soaring the shorts had to dump overboard whatever of securities they held to protect their short contracts in cotton. It is also the fact that the large increase in loans by the banks has been the result of the bullish manipulation of cotton. It is more than likely that had this unfortunate cotton speculation not intervened at this time the market might have been given more of its head and allowed to work on higher levels. Again the large purchases of stocks for London account have at last had their effect on the sterling exchange market, and with the present condition of exchange it is not likely that gold in any quantity will go abroad for some time.

The rallying power of the market is not all that it should have been or that might have been expected of it, and the unknown evil influence at work may be explained by the statement made in some high quarters that the prevailing ease of money is temporary and that Wall Street should begin even now to make preparations for meeting the enormous demand for funds to move the crops. It is a little peculiar that we have not received from the West the usual declarations that that section should not call on the East for money for crop moving purposes. The western banks have not made a very good showing in their report to the Comptroller of Currency and it is believed that at least as much money, if not more, will be needed to move the crops next fall. If there is no influx of money into the country, the necessary funds will have to be provided by a liquidation of loans and here again Wall Street will, in all probability have to bear the principle brunt.

It is expected and confidently believed that at the extra session of Congress which will probably be fixed for late in October, or early in November, a financial bill will be introduced and passed, but how far this will go to help end any money stringency, that may occur before the end of the year is problematical. The situation also depends largely on what for the new law will take.

The labor situation is another that causes some apprehension. When builders, especially must surrender their operations to the men or go out of business, it is high time that there was a readjustment of conditions. Not only is the price of labor advancing, but the cost of material is increasing, and large operations must be held in abeyance to await the equitable conditions of affairs. It is hoped that the labor unions will be wise enough not to push their demands to the breaking point where the employers must either stop business or reduce the rates of compensation.

Railroad earnings continue to be of the most encouraging character. Out of the total of forty-five roads reporting for the second week in May, thirty-nine show increases amounting to $1,168,265, and six show decreases amounting to $14,277. Of the gains on the Canadian Pacific shows an increase of $174,000; Wabash, $100,000; Western $66,000, and Southern railway, $6,000.

Trying to Save Wild Ducks

The League of American Sportsmen, through its large and active membership in many states, has been successful in inducing the legislatures of eight states and three Canadian provinces to put laws on their statute books prohibiting spring shooting of wild fowl and at present there are bills pending in many states to prohibit such shooting.

"If there are to be any wild geese, ducks and brandt left, outside of museums, for future generations," said George O. Shields, president of the League of American Sportsmen, in the New York Times, "spring shooting must be abolished and abolished immediately. Every season for the last ten years has shown a gradual diminution in the flocks of wild fowl visiting our coast. A very good example is Barnegat bay. Some years ago those waters afforded duck and goose shooting that even confirmed 'bristleback'—this is President Shields' pet name for a game hog—would have called 'good.' But today, owing to the continued killing through the long open season, the birds are in such small numbers that it is hardly worth while to make the trip there for a day's sport and the clubs whose sporting establishments thrived along the bay shore are reaping the fruits of past selfishness.

The Long Island pooh-pooh the possibility of the extinction of wild geese and ducks. Why I want to tell you that two years before the disappearance of the wild pigeon from among our native birds I saw clouds of them that numbered into the millions. I have seen them feeding in speech forests so thickly jammed that limbs as your wrist snapped under their weight. Armies of market hunters followed the wanderings of these birds in their migrations. They located their roosting places and with clubs and torches slaughtered them at night by hundreds. I have seen a whole train of freight cars loaded with nothing but wild pigeons sent away from the neighborhood of one of their roosts. The market hunters never let go. They hounded them to their breeding places and robbed the nests of their squabs and

In doing so wantonly killed many of the young which were not of a marketable size, as their method of gathering the squabs was simply to jolt the limbs which held the nests with a long pole and rather up only those which they wished of the fallen squabs.

"Now, if you had told those fellows at that time that in a short while these birds would be extinct they would have thought you mad. But much the same thing is being done now to the ducks and geese," continued Mr. Shields, as he took down from the wall a large hanging map. "Starting here at the Canadian line early in September the wild geese and ducks are met as they leave their breeding grounds by a motley crew of market hunters—some who ship for themselves and others in the employ of the game dealers. These men, dead shots every one and trained in every vile to lure the fowl, follow the main flight of the birds south, shooting every day and almost every hour of the day. Some take the Atlantic coast route, while others prefer the Mississippi valley, but day in and day out they must earn their day's wage, and, sad to say, they usually do.

"Eventually, along about December all these ducks and geese, brant and swans, assemble, some of them in the Everglades of Florida, others in the wild rice marshes of southern Texas, with the main army wintering in Currituck and Pamlico sounds.

"To these points, almost on their heels, follow the ubiquitous marketmen, their ranks swelled by a horde of the native species at each place. I know personally of 400 market hunters in and about the Currituck sound country alone; and, by the way, a great many of them had to move over into the wild rice fields of southern Texas this winter to eke out their season's income. Here all through December and January they ply their trade. Then with the returning spring the ducks and geese, without having had a week's respite, true to their instinct begin their flight to the northern breeding grounds. And hot-foot after them come the market hunters."

CHECKS FIGURE IN POSTAL FRAUD

LATTER INDORSES THE PAPER

Letter Signed by Acting Assistant Attorney General Christianity Is Dictated by D. V. Miller, Who Has Been Dismissed From the Service.

Washington, May 27.—Joseph M. Johns, the attorney at Rockville, Ind., charged with conspiracy in the alleged bribery of Daniel V. Miller, the assistant attorney for the postoffice department, who was dismissed from the service, was arrested at Rockville and arraigned at Indianapolis. He gave bond for $1,500, the paper being signed by several Rockville citizens.

Miller was at the postoffice department in conference with Assistant Attorney General Robb, who put him through a rigid course of questioning regarding the case. Later in the day Miller, who is also under bond, departed for Terre Haute, Ind.

Ryan to Be Witness.
John J. Ryan of Cincinnati, head of the "get-rich-quick" concern, whose confession led to the exposure, has consented to come to Washington and furnish all the information in his possession. He will also be a witness in the trial of Miller and Johns, which will take place in Cincinnati. The federal grand jury meets there Oct. 6, and the cases will then be taken up.

According to evidence in possession of the postal authorities Johns received $4,500 as a result of the decision of Acting Assistant Attorney General Christianity that the Ryan Turf Investment company was entitled to use the mails. Miller was an assistant of Christianity. The authorities here say that Johns was not an attorney of the Ryan concern, but has been a life-long friend and political associate of Miller. The exact division of the $4,500 is not known.

Checks as Evidence.
The checks which figure in the alleged payments to Miller and Johns, which are in possession of the department, are for $3,400. They were supplemented with a cash payment of $1,100. The checks are signed by the Ryan concern and made out to Johns' order and indorsed by him. Miller had charge of the investigation of the Ryan case and prepared the letter which Acting Assistant Attorney General Christianity signed.

The Postoffice department has a great mass of documentary evidence against the alleged conspirators, among which is a letter to John Ryan from George A. C. Christianity as acting assistant attorney general for the Postoffice department, informing Ryan that the investigation satisfied the Washington officials of his right to use the mails in his business.

Dictated by Miller.
Miller's handwriting, indicating that Miller dictated the letter, and for that reason the officials say there is no proceeding against Christianity. This letter was not forwarded to Ryan, but it came to him through Johns when they met in Cincinnati Dec. 16, 1902, after Ryan paid Johns $1,100 cash and $3,400 in St. Louis checks. Ryan says he was told that if he put up $25,000 for a certain senator the postal department would stand by him, but that he declined the proposition.

Shooting Affray Follows Arrest of Oriental on Canadian Boundary.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 27.—Five Chinamen were captured just after they had landed on this side of the Niagara river. A closed carriage supposed to have been on the way to the river front for the Chinamen hastily moved away when the driver saw the Chinamen under arrest. A shot fired to stop the driver was answered by shots from the carriage and a general shooting followed. So far as known no person was injured. The Chinamen were locked up pending a hearing.

English Explorers Reach Mountains 300 Miles From Coveted Spot.

San Francisco, May 27.—Lieut. D. H. Shackleton, R. N., has arrived from Australia on his way to England to make a report upon the progress of Antarctic exploration expedition of the Royal Geological society. The most important discovery made so far is that of a chain of mountains from 7,000 to 9,000 feet high extending for 300 miles, and, it is believed, to the south pole.

Goldfish Live Long.

There are some goldfish in Washington which belonged to the same family for the last fifty years, and they seem no bigger and no less vigorous today than they did when they first came into the owners' possession. A few of the fish in the Royal Aquarium, in St. Petersburg, are known to be one hundred and fifty years old.

A CITY OF ROMANCE

NEW ORLEANS A JEWEL IN A RARE SETTING.

Charm of the Quaint Louisiana Metropolis Are Many and Varied—Unnumbered Legends and Traditions Connected With Its Long History.

(Special Correspondence.)

Within these United States of ours is one of its fairest southern states, famed by the breath of the Mexican gulf, for a city teeming with romance, legends and history; old enough to have its legends and traditions handed down from generation to generation; quaint and picturesque enough to satisfy the most skeptical artist or poet, and large enough to boast thirty-two place in population among the many cities in Uncle Sam's domain. This is the "Crescent City"—New Orleans.

The city is divided in half by Canal street, the "Broadway" of New Orleans. The French or Creoles make up the lower half of the town, and the Americans the upper. On the lower side beyond Canal street one finds himself distinctly in a French town, breathing a French atmosphere, being confronted by French signs, numbers and cafes, and hearing the French language spoken almost exclusively. The houses are quaint and old, showing a peculiar and ancient style of architecture. Queer little balconies protrude right out over the heads of pedestrians truly representing the one upon which the fair Juliet reclined as she whispered tender words and tossed her love-kissed roses to Romeo.

One can stand on Canal street and observe the Creole women as they pass, and from their faces discern whether they be of French or Spanish parentage. The majority have jet black hair and eyes, though there are blonde Creole maidens, too. Those with the sparkling merry eyes and a saucy "chic" style of dress are almost invariably French, while the woman with soft liquid black eyes, crimson lips and general air of graceful languor is a true daughter of Spain. The French are known to be the most polite and hospitable people in the world, and in this the Creoles are not lacking. Indeed, it is a peculiar charm of the whole race.

The Creole home, like many of the "old south," is set far back in the center of a large yard or rose garden, and surrounded by a high brick ivy-covered wall that Chung, the Chinese giant, could not have over-peered.

So many of those old French houses can boast a history. Stories of romance, midnight revels; cold, creepy ghost stories and tales of haunted houses. In the garden of one stands a rose bush to which there is a legend attached. One night or rather in the "wee sma" hours," as the legend goes, a young woman was returning home from the Comus hall, accompanied by her sweetheart, a Frenchman who had just reached home from Paris, after completing his education. He had been absent five years, but in that lapse of time these young lovers had been faithful to their troth. The maiden's father, aristocratic, stern and unrelenting, hated bitterly the young fellow, though with no better cause than an old family feud of the dead past. In which the young man bore no part. But, ah! How often do the sins of the father rest upon the son, even unto the third and fourth generation! As the carriage bearing the couple rolled up the avenue, the old father sat in his study, dreaming over all the bitterness, strife and hatred of his past life. All the old wounds had been torn open afresh by the homecoming of this man—his daughter's lover. He realized that in spite of his protestations they would be married. Hearing carriage wheels on the gravel driveway, he sprang up, his heart filled with rage—and rushing out upon the lawn, encountered his daughter and the Frenchman as they alighted from the carriage. In an instant a pistol flashed from his hand, and the young man fell a corpse at the feet of his betrothed. The white roses waved over the dead man's face, and his life-blood flowed around their roots. The torture-stricken girl fell across his body insensible, and from the grief and horror of that night became hopelessly insane. Now, each year, it is said, on the night of the Comus ball, that old white rose bush bursts into bloom, but bears only two roses, one white and the other deep crimson. This is only one of the many, many legends connected with the old mansions of New Orleans.

The most romantic spot, perhaps, connected with the city is the old city park on the French side, noted for its monster live oaks of which so much has been written. This was the famous old dueling ground, where the blood of many a gallant young Frenchman flowed after his "affaire-de-cœur," when, with clashing steel, he sought redress. Or perhaps now and then some weary soul, hunted and tired of life, sought this spot to look for the last time upon the beauties of earth. Ah, the thrilling scenes those giant oaks have witnessed!

The cemeteries of New Orleans are veritable cities of the dead, inasmuch as they are laid off in streets and avenues, named and well kept. The dead are buried almost exclusively in mausoleums, some of them handsome in the extreme. In the old cemeteries upon these mausoleums one may read the names of marquises, barons and chevaliers.

The grandest event during the year to the visitor and to the inhabitants is the great carnival or Mardi Gras celebration, which brings so many visitors from all parts of America. One wants no brighter picture engraven upon the memory than the interior of the historic old French opera house on carnival nights. The maskers upon the stage in their glittering costumes, the king leading his queen to her place beside him upon the throne, the beautiful mythological tableaux which precede the dances, tier after tier, box after box of beautiful women, the glitter of diamonds and the shimmer of satin, the exquisite array in point lace, pearl and chiffon, the brilliant repartee, tender glances and soft words, a mingling of chivalry and beauty. How many times the words, "Vous êtes charmant," "Je vous adore!" are spoken, one will never know. And thus it is that time drifts on in that southern city of warmth, flowers and sunshine. Each one in this life is destined to receive his sorrows, and here, in this gay town, are hundreds who are hugging their woes, bitterness and poverty, as others do, and have done, throughout God's great world. But the majority in this city do enjoy life to its fullest extent, an daisist in making the world gay and brighter by their very existence. The stranger who visits New Orleans will find that it is a city not to be explored in a single day, nay, not in many, many days; for each succeeding visit will reveal to him new interests, new sights and new pleasures.

The Latest In Surgery.
Knife and fork surgery is the name given by the hospital to a new method of Koeing of Berlin by which he avoids the dangers of contaminating wounds by putting his fingers in them. The surgeon performs many operations without ever touching the tissues, much as we eat our meals by aid of forks and spoons instead of claving our food. By practice with suitably devised metal instruments, which, of course, are capable of complete sterilization, he has found that he can get through very many operations, even that for appendicitis, in the quiescent interval, without ever touching the wound.

Will Die In His Native Land.
Ladislav Madarasz, who was Kosuth's minister of police in 1849 and who for the past fifty-four years has lived in Iowa, is about to start for his old home in Hungary to pass the remainder of his life. The people of his country are arranging an elaborate reception for him.

Pasteur's Valuable Discovery.
It was Pasteur who first revealed that disease was essentially a fermentation, like that of yeast, due to the presence of minute fungi now known as bacteria. His dramatic cures of dreaded hydrophobia gave his discovery world-wide notoriety.

Will Be Boon to Aged Poor.
Dr. L. Glendon Archambault, one of the oldest physicians in Rhode Island, who died several days ago in Providence, left $40,000 to found a hospital for the aged poor in that city.

TO ORDER JEWS

TO LEAVE KIEFF

SEEK TO OBTAIN CONCESSIONS

Delegation of Israelites Endeavor to Secure Interview With the Minister of the Interior in Order to Obtain Protection for Their People.

St. Petersburg, May 27.—The chief of police of Kieff has ordered the police commissaries within the jurisdiction to institute a fresh inquiry into the legal status of the Jews and to expel forcibly those who have no legal right of residence and who refuse to leave.

A Jewish deputation has arrived here from Kishineff. Its object is to obtain, if possible, from M. Plehve, minister of the interior, the issue of an official circular telling the people that the Jews are under the protection of the law, and that the outrages against them will not be tolerated.

Would Stop Fanatical Campaign.
The Jews also seek to obtain a warning against the newspaper Bessarabyetz to discontinue its anti-Semitic campaign, or, at least, permission to publish another paper at Kishineff which will counteract the influence of Bessarabyetz. They ask that an investigation be made into the origin of the riots with a view to the punishment of those who instigated them.

Ask Trade Concessions.
From M. Witte, minister of finance, they hope to obtain a temporary remission of the heavy trading dues until the population has in some measure recovered from the losses from the general government. They will ask for some slight alleviation of the restrictions placed upon the Jews, and failing that, for some control over the administration to protect the Jews against the vexatious exactions to which they are subjected by the police.

Holds Governor Responsible.
A Russian gentleman of position, who was an eyewitness of the massacre at Kishineff, says that the Jews did not in any single instance begin attacking the Christians, and their behavior throughout was irreproachable. In his opinion the whole responsibility falls on the administration.

A leading lawyer of Kishineff, who accompanied the Jewish deputation, has drawn up a detailed report of the massacre.

Mob Obeys Police.
It entirely confirms the reports of the indifference and connivance of the authorities. It says that whenever the least attempt at repression was made no outrage whatever was committed, a simple order to the mob to disperse being sufficient. Thus the outbreak did not touch the third police district, which is almost entirely inhabited by Jews.

Christian Saves Jews.
One house in the center of the district where the riots began was preserved and untouched by a single policeman. Two policemen sufficed to protect a Jeweler's shop in a certain street where all the other shops were sacked. A handful of members of the fire brigade protected a large number of lodgings. There were several cases in which a single Christian of the educated class by authoritative interference saved a whole house from destruction.

Threat Stops Riot.
Finally a mere threat of force sufficed to stop a whole riot, the ruffianly mob becoming immediately seized with fear and disappearing. The minister promised sympathetic consideration of the facts set forth in the petitions of the Jewish population for future protection. Consequently, the minister yesterday suppressed the distribution of Krausert's new anti-Semitic organ, the Znamis.

Self-sacrificing Father.
The father of a young Pittsburg man has married the fiancée of his son. Few parents are so thoughtful for their children's happiness as to make sacrifices of that kind.
